

Put child care within reach this federal election!

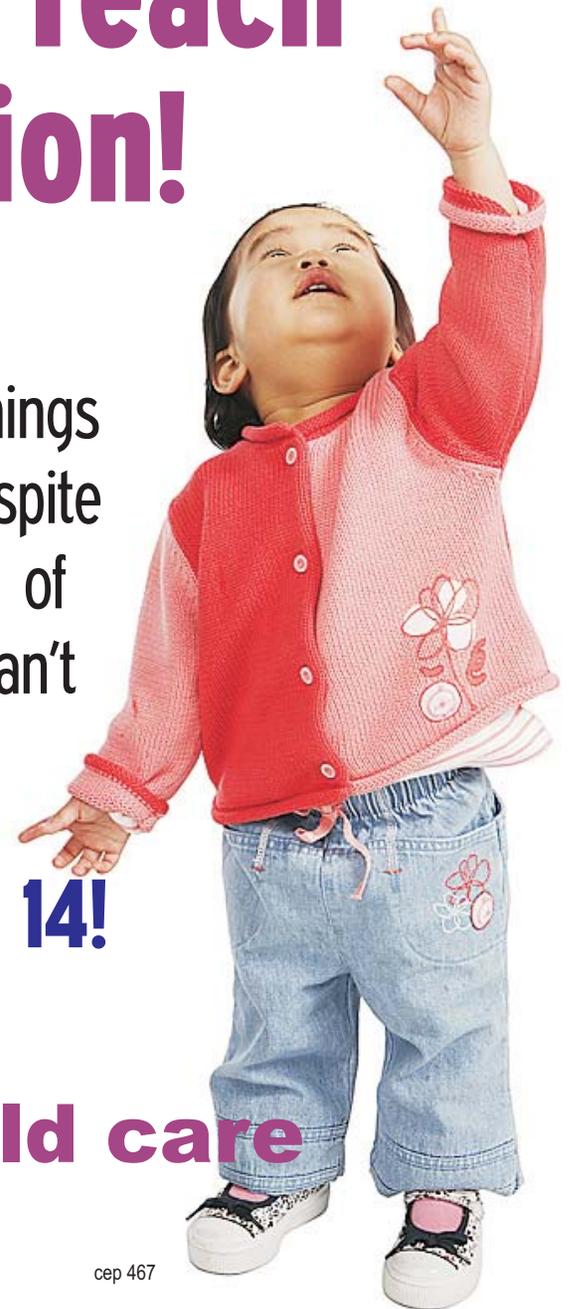

The Harper government cancelled the beginnings of a national universal child care system. Despite Conservative claims that a taxable allowance of $100 a month is the answer - parents still can't find child care spaces for their children.

Vote for child care on October 14!

canada STILL needs child care

Authorized by Code Blue for Child Care

cep 467

THIS FEDERAL ELECTION – child care is within reach. The NDP, Liberal and Green parties are promising they will build a universal child care system. The Conservatives are not. It's time to vote for the party you trust most to deliver a universal, community-based child care system.

Here's what you can do:

- Register to vote (www.elections.ca or call toll-free 1-800-463-6868).
- Get five friends to do the same.
- On October 14, 2008 vote for the party you trust most to deliver universal child care services.
- Talk about the importance of voting for child care at your work, grocery store and dinner table. A $100/month taxable allowance isn't child care!

canada STILL needs child care
FEDERAL ELECTION 2008