ROSE Campaign

Every year, violence and abuse drive over 100,000 women and children out of their homes and into emergency shelters. Many more — often young women and women struggling with mental health and addictions — never make it to shelter at all. They live on the streets of our cities, in poverty and at high risk of more violence, including rape. As the nation slowly acknowledges the loss of nearly 600 missing and murdered Aboriginal women, we need to recognize that our failure to ensure no woman has to live on the street has left women vulnerable to murder.
